Signing Day For Students At Nationally Ranked JECA

Many high schools have National Signing Day for their top athletes as they make decisions on where they will go to school next. Well for students at nationally ranked (U.S. News & World Report) Judson Early College Academy in Judson ISD, signing day is just as big and with good reason, it's about academics. The graduates this year have earned more than $23 million dollars in scholarships and will be committing to their college or university of choice. And with the early college curriculum, through which these students have persevered, they will graduate high school with a diploma and an associate's degree with two years of college studies finished.

These students will commit to major colleges and universities from around the state and the nation. This year students like Noah Zuckerman are looking forward to their studies at the next level. Noah is a National Merit Finalist and has a variety of options that he has been considering.

Since 2009, when Judson Early College Academy opened its doors in Judson ISD, the standards for students have been high because of the college level rigor that has been taught. JECA has a partnership with Northeast Lakeview College located adjacent to the JECA campus. This literally allows students to walk from their high school classes to the college campus for their higher learning instruction. This makes for a unique educational experience that is geared toward highly focused students committed to earning a college education.
